the book offers a feminist examination of contemporary social injustices it argues for a paradigm shift away from feminist philosophy organized around the gender concept woman and towards humanist feminism the book further develops a notion of dehumanization that explicates social injustices elucidates humanist feminism and improves non feminist analyses of injustice

this handbook advances the interdisciplinary field of philosophy politics and economics ppe by identifying thirty five topics of ongoing research instead of focusing on historically significant texts it features experts talking about current debates individually each chapter provides a resource for new research together the chapters provide a thorough introduction to contemporary work in ppe which makes it an ideal reader for a senior year course the handbook is organized into seven parts each with its own introduction and five chapters i frameworks ii decision making iii social structures iv markets v economic systems vi distributive justice vii democracy the frameworks part discusses common tools and perspectives in ppe and the decision making section shows different approaches to the study of choice from there parts on social structures markets and economic systems each use tools from the three ppe disciplines to study and distinguish parts of society the next part explains dominant theories and challenges to the paradigm of distributive justice finally a part on democracy offers five challenges to current democratic practice this volume offers a meta philosophical reflection on feminist philosophies of science it emphasizes and discusses both the connections and differences between traditional philosophies of science and feminist philosophies of science the collection systematically analyses feminist contributions to the various philosophies of specific sciences each chapter is devoted to a specific area of philosophy of science general philosophy of science philosophy of biology philosophy of climate sciences philosophy of cognitive sciences and neurosciences philosophy of economics philosophy of history and archaeology philosophy of logic and mathematics philosophy of medicine philosophy of psychology philosophy of physics and philosophy of social sciences since some of these areas have so far rarely been addressed by feminist philosophers this new collection provides new angles and stimulates the debate on pivotal issues that are part and parcel of both traditional philosophies of science and feminist philosophies of science using a range of different methodologies and styles the essays all show great clarity in both arguments and contents the oxford handbook of the philosophy of love offers a wide array of original essays from leading philosophers on the nature and value of love feminist theory a philosophical anthology addresses seven philosophically significant questions regarding feminism its central concepts of sex and gender and the project of centering women s experience topics include the nature of sexist oppression the sex gender distinction how gender based norms influence conceptions of rationality knowledge and scientific objectivity feminist ethics feminist perspectives on self and autonomy whether there exist distinct feminine moral perspectives and what would comprise true liberation features an introductory overview illustrating the development of feminism as a philosophical movement contains both classic and contemporary sources of feminist thought including selections by mary wollstonecraft john stuart mill simone de beauvoir kate millett bell hooks marilyn frye martha nussbaum louise antony sally haslanger helen longino marilyn friedman catharine mackinnon and drucilla cornell this book explores the nature of values and the status of value studies at the turn of the millennium the contributors nineteen philosophers from fourteen countries introduce and defend an enriching variety of views regarding the present state and future prospects of value inquiry in this book hay argues that the moral and political frameworks of kantianism and liberalism are indispensable for addressing the concerns of contemporary feminism after defending the use of these frameworks for feminist purposes hay uses them to argue that people who are oppressed have an obligation to themselves to resist their own oppression contract and domination offers a bold challenge to contemporary contract theory arguing that it should either be fundamentally rethought or abandoned altogether since the publication of John Rawls's A Theory of Justice contract theory has once again become central to the Western political tradition but gender justice is neglected and racial justice almost completely ignored. Carole Pateman and Charles Mills's earlier books The Sexual Contract (1988) and The Racial Contract (1997) offered devastating critiques of gender and racial domination and the contemporary contract tradition's silence on them. Both books have become classics of revisionist radical democratic political theory. Now Pateman and Mills are collaborating for the first time in an interdisciplinary volume drawing on their insights from political science and philosophy. They are building on but going beyond their earlier work to bring the sexual and racial contracts together in Contract and Domination. Pateman and Mills discuss their differences about contract theory and whether it has a useful future. Excavate the white settler contract that created new civil societies in North America and Australia. Argue via a non-ideal contract for reparations to Black Americans. Confront the evasions of contemporary contract theorists. Explore the intersections of gender and race and the global sexual racial contract and reply to their critics. This iconoclastic book throws the gauntlet down to mainstream white male contract theory. It is vital reading for anyone with an interest in political theory and political philosophy and the systems of male and racial domination.

This collection of new essays examines philosophical issues at the intersection of feminism and autonomy studies. Are autonomy and independence useful goals for women and subordinate persons? Is autonomy possible in contexts of social subordination? Is the pursuit of desires that issue from patriarchal norms consistent with autonomous agency? How do emotions and caring relate to autonomous deliberation? Contributors to this collection answer these questions and others advancing central debates in autonomy theory by examining basic components: normative commitments and applications of conceptions of autonomy. Several chapters look at the conditions necessary for autonomous agency and at the role that values and norms such as independence, equality, inclusivity, self-respect, care, and femininity play in feminist theories of autonomy. Whereas some contributing authors focus on dimensions of autonomy that are internal to the mind such as deliberative reflection, desires, cares, emotions, self-identities, and feelings of self-worth, several authors address social conditions and practices that support or stifle autonomous agency. Often answering questions of practical import, these include such questions as: What type of gender socialization best supports autonomous agency and feminist goals? When does adapting to severely oppressive circumstances such as those in human trafficking turn into a loss of autonomy? How are ideals of autonomy affected by capitalism? And how do conceptions of autonomy inform issues in bioethics such as end-of-life decisions or rights to bodily self-determination?
